where do they lead?

A blue-tinted photograph of a tropical landscape. In the foreground, a stone wall with a metal railing runs diagonally across the frame. Behind the wall, there are several palm trees and other tropical plants. The background is a dense, lush forest. The overall mood is serene and natural.

LIFE . . . nourished in the womb;
a tiny cell
traveling through a complex circuitry;

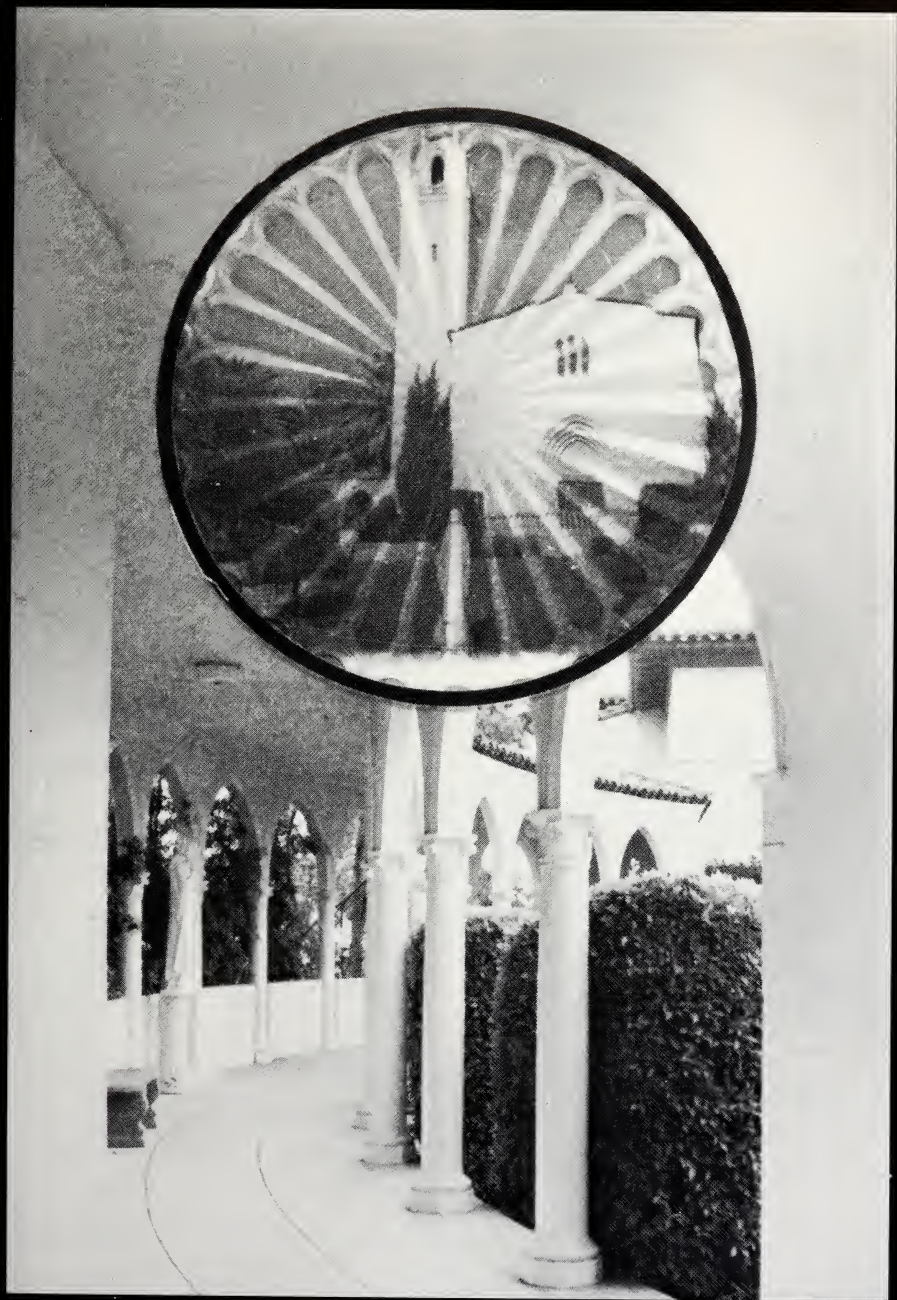

BIRTH . . . an independent journey;
we interact —
we create — we become —

GROWTH . . . a never ending journey;
touched by academics,
influenced by culture,
enlightened by the spiritual
and extended through the social;

WE BLOSSOM . . .
to continue the journey
and yet to retain the memories.

The "journey," whether it be a pilgrimage, a process of change, or a matter of commerce is a familiar theme. Chaucer, Giotto, Dvorak, Benozzo Gozzoli, T. S. Eliot, Francis Thompson, C. S. Lewis — one can go on and on. In fact, its familiarity connotes that there is something universal about the notion of a journey — that it often suggests a movement of personal significance.

Perhaps one could even imagine the college years as a journey. Several facets come to mind that may have special meaning for students in the brief years of formal education. For instance, during these years the pace of one's journey must be very rapid, much ground must be covered, much seen — whole worlds. Thus, because the time is short, and the landscape vast, the desire to see it all — to miss little — must be both deep and enduring, it must be a veritable passion.

Another special facet of this particular journey is that it is rigorous and open-ended. For as one goes forward the horizons only recede, the scope only widens and the thirst to grasp all only deepens. In fact, the sign of failure in this journey appears when the demands are not great, and the journey descends to a kind of tourism, calling for little personal commitment, little understanding, and only passing interest.

Those who have been on it for some time will attest that should one's person be tapped during this journey, it leads to unexpected riches, to satisfaction formerly unknown, to possibilities of life yet unenvisioned. One begins to see that all smaller movements, the shorter excursions, are somehow intertwined; and as one comes over one rise after another, a certain perspective becomes possible that allows not only choice in one's own direction but also significant contributions along the way.

CHRISTMAS CHORAL CONCERT. On Friday, December 2, 1977, in the House of Studies Chapel, the Mount Chorus, conducted by Leo Nestor, presented an outstanding concert to enhance the spirit of Christmas.

with the theme "if our friends could see us now," spring sing '78 began in the spring of '77 when cindy burns and evelyn javier were appointed chairpersons. after their smashing success with "a chorus line," a repeat extravaganza was assured. some of the hits of this year's performance were "saturday night fever," "annie," and "if my friends could see me now." a great deal of work . . . a fantastic show in the true mount spirit!

interdepartmental presentation

enlightened by the spiritual,

fr. ryan welcomed as new mount chaplain

Dear Graduates: D.H. Lawrence, perhaps to some an unusually surprising source of wisdom or prophecy, once wrote wisely and prophetically, "The desires of the moment are easy to recognise, but the other ones, the deeper ones, are difficult. It is the business of our Chief Thinkers to tell us of our deeper desires, not to keep shrilling our little desires into our ears."

Through the academic medium of the college enterprise, professors and classes, seminars and libraries, study and discussion, you came in touch with our Chief Thinkers, thereby helping yourselves to discern your deepest desires and acquiring the intellectual and practical skills required to achieve these in your lifetimes.

Such discernment is always, however, much more than an intellectual and artistic adventure, indispensable as these may be. You must meet Lovers as well as Thinkers, the kind of Lovers found in the encounters of faith, friendship, community, celebration and service, and these encounters guarantee your discernment of deeper desires to be the discernment of great desires.

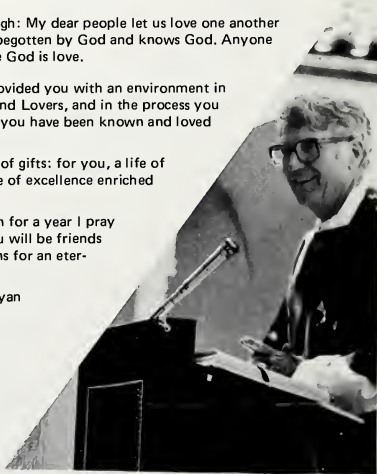

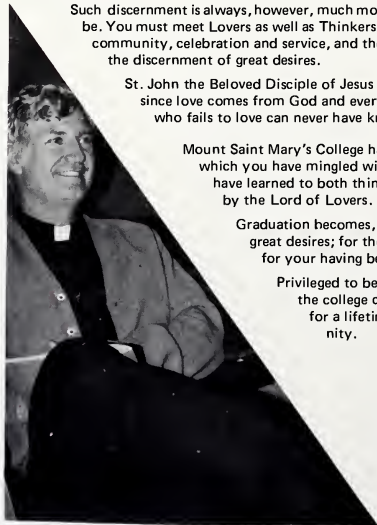

St. John the Beloved Disciple of Jesus said it simply enough: My dear people let us love one another since love comes from God and everyone who loves is begotten by God and knows God. Anyone who fails to love can never have known God, because God is love.

Mount Saint Mary's College has unashamedly provided you with an environment in which you have mingled with both Thinkers and Lovers, and in the process you have learned to both think and love even as you have been known and loved by the Lord of Lovers.

Graduation becomes, then, an exchange of gifts: for you, a life of great desires; for the college, a heritage of excellence enriched for your having been here.

Privileged to be your chaplain even for a year I pray the college community and you will be friends for a lifetime, and companions for an eternity.

Rev. Sylvester Ryan

Π Θ Μ

I, Carol Slacks, do hereby pledge my loyal support to the ideals of Pi Theta Mu, and I promise to serve willingly and cheerfully as an official hostess of Mount St. Mary's College for the academic year 1977-1978.

Pi Theta Mu is the traditional sophomore service sorority established exclusively at Mount Saint Mary's College. The service sorority is called on by the college to serve at a variety of on and off campus functions, thus providing favorable college relations.

Membership is open to all sophomore women with a 2.0 grade point average. Pi Theta Mu, 1977-78 consists of 68 members.

During our year of service, we enjoyed hosting such events as: the President's Tea, the Mount Festival, the Christmas Choral Concert, the Spring Sing and Mary's Day.

KAPPA DELTA CHI is the only social sorority on campus. Exchanges, boat parties and pledging are a part of Kappa life. Pledging begins with six weeks of "Good morning Miss Meis Madame" and ends with Hell Nite. The biggest Kappa event of the year is "presents" held at the Riviera Country Club. On that night the pledges, dressed in white, enter into the sisterhood of Kappa Delta Chi.

college who have assisted the yearbook staff in various ways

The journey involved in producing a yearbook is often an upward climb. At the beginning of the book's journey two students went to Mary Ann O'Brien to find out about the book's future. They had received funding from A.S.B. but they still hadn't found an advisor. Then two volunteered, Mary Ann O'Brien and Sister Mary Frederick Arnold. We would like to thank them. Without the dedication and hard work of Mary Ann and Sister Mary Frederick, the book's journey would have been aborted long before it ever reached its first paste-up. The book is dedicated to our parents but it was only through the dedication of Sister Mary Frederick, Mary Ann, Mr. Arnone, yearbook representative, and the great resource people in the acknowledgement that this book could ever have found its life and completed its journey into your hands.

We would like to thank you for your support of the book and for being such photogenic subjects. We hope you enjoy this book and that it has captured some of the moments of the year that were so special to you.

Sincerely,

The 77-78 Yearbook Staff
